SUCH ARRESTS ILLEGAL.

Justice Ryan's Sharp Comments on the Jennie Grant Case.

Justice Ryan, at Jefferson Market Court, expressed himself forcibly this morning with regard to the investigations which had been woman who was arrested Wednesday night by Ponceman Zimmerman, of the Mercer tice Ryan refused to disclose the name of the writer, but discharged the woman and lectured the officer.

Accounts published to-day made it appear that Jennie Grant has borne a bad reputation for years and that she was arrested a.x weeks ago on a similar charge. Justice Ryan was shown the printed statements this morning by an Evenius Woman reporter.

"I don't care," he said, "what the woman's reputation was. Some policemen have un idea that because a woman is of loose record they can arrest her and arraign her at any time and on the flimsicat pretense.

"I knew nothing against Policeman Zimmerman, and did not know that the woman had been arrested before; but if I had known if I should have acted just as I did.

"I have often observed similar cases—have noted them as I passed along the street. I intend to break the practice up. This officer is new on the force and anxious to make a record, but he cannot do it by arresting people who are not breaking the laws."

Justice Ryan refused again to give the name of his informant, but said he was a friend on whose word he could rely absolutely.

MEXICANS FOUGHT AT A BALL

LAREDO, Tex., Dec. 16. Orders have been apt to Lieut. Hediken, in command of the United States troops in the lower country, to raport that Mexican soldiers are held there rs, and, if the report be true, to Hiberate them at once.

A Spanish paper published in this city denies that the fight was of a revolutionary ples that the fight was of a revolutionary character, but chains at a recent ball at san Ygnaclo the officers of the Mexican troops were invited over and attended. Jealousles were aroused, and, as a result, a fight took place at the dance, which resulted in the ranchers crossing the river, whipping the troops, capturing the prisoners and bringing them to this side, where a charge of disturbing the peace at the dance was made against them.

ROSE COGHLAN IN CONTEMPT

Disobeyed a Court Order Issued by Judge Newburger.

Actress Rose Coghlan rests to-day under a citation for contempt of court, issued by Judge Newburger, in the City Court, upon her fallure to appear as a witness in supple mentary proceedings brought by Daniel Bradley, a tailor, against Samuel Kingston, a former advance agent for the star. The latter is at present in Worcester fulfilling an engagement, and in an affidavit drawn there yesterday Miss Coghlan says:

"I know nothing of the facts of the action against Kingston. The reason I did not ap. pear in this court Dec. 10 is that a paper was thrown at me which I never saw. It was at midnight, as I was coming out of the Harlem Opera-House stage entrance on One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, getting into my carriage. It was pitch dark and I did not know it was an order of the Court. The first mitimation I had that it was such was last Saturday, just before the matinee periormance, when I was served with an order to show cause herein.

"I did not have on that day, nor have I since had, any property whatever belonging to the above-named judgment debtor. On the contrary, he is indebted to me for $150 money loaned and advanced to him. I did not intentionally viciate the order of Court, but am ready and willing to attend on such days as the Court may direct, when I return to New York, about March 13, 1803."

Judge Newburger received the affidavit this morring from Counselior David May, of Howe & Hummel's office, who represent Miss Coghlan, and reserved his decision. It is expected that Miss Coghlan will be purged of the contempt in view of her explanation. carriage. It was pitch dark and I did not
